

NEW BONUS FIGHT TO BE WAGED FROM ANGLE OF LEGALITY

Senator Bursum, Father Of
New Measure, Predicts
Harding Will Sign.

THREE PROVISIONS FOR PAYING VETS

Models Bill After One In Last Congress, With Some Changes.

Washington, June 7.—Predicting enactment of a $1,200,000,000 adjusted compensation bill by the next congress, Sen. Holm O. Bursum, Republican of New Mexico, chairman of the senate pension committee, today announced that the bonus fight in behalf of America's 4,000,000 World war veterans would be waged from a new angle—that of legality.

The government, Sen. Bursum said, had contracted a "legal obligation" by forcing its soldiers to pay their own insurance, and in requiring forced allotments during the war. He cited state compensation acts, affecting peace-time employment, to emphasize the government's obligation.

Furthermore, Bursum declared, the bonus bill when passed will be signed by President Harding. If not, he said, there are enough votes to pass it over his veto.

Bursum announced he would introduce the bonus bill as soon as congress reconvened and was prepared to lead the fight for its enactment. The new Bursum bill, he said, will be modeled after the one introduced in the last congress with certain changes.

The bill will pay a minimum of $52 a month to the veterans through the following principal provisions:

- 1—Refunding of all insurance payments, averaging $7 a month per man.
- 2—Repayment of all enforced allotments, ranging from $5 to $15 a month, and.
- 3—Payment of a "retroactive" wage increase of $20 a month for service during the war (equal to the increase given civilian employees during the war.)

"The bonus bill is going to become a law during the next congress," was Bursum's flat prediction. "I am of the opinion that the president will sign the bill when passed."

BUDGETS HELD UP BY NEW TAFT LAW

Status Of Taxation Bill To Be Determined By Supreme Court.

Lisbon, June 7.—Inquiries are being received daily at the office of County Auditor C. E. Hamilton in regard to the delay in issuing the regular budgets for the towns and cities of the county which should have been made their appearance June 1.

In order that the reasons for the delay may be generally known Mr. Hamilton stated this morning that the delay had been caused by the passing of the Taft taxing law, over the governor's veto.

"State taxing officials now are in doubt as to the status of this law," said Mr. Hamilton, "and have appealed to the supreme court of the state for a ruling. If the Taft law is in effect now without being submitted to a referendum, the budgets will be made out under the new law. "Until this is definitely known by the ruling of the supreme court, there will be no opportunity to proceed with the making out of the budgets. This is the fault of none of the taxing officials but is one of those mixups that occur when legislation is delayed and there is no opportunity to understand the provisions of the law that has been enacted."

Auto Skids Trying To Avoid Collision

A taxi narrowly escaped wreckage and the driver of a large touring car escaped without injury early Thursday morning when the touring car skidded on the wet pavement on Garfield ave, when the brakes were applied.

Attempting to avoid striking the taxi the driver of the touring car applied the brakes while driving north on Garfield ave. The machine turned a complete circle so that the car faced south when brought to a standstill. The rear wheel was smashed as it struck against the curbing at the intersection of East Fourth st.

Work Of Appellate Court Is Completed

All matters brought before the court of appeals at Lisbon were disposed of and Wednesday the court adjourned, the judges going to their homes. Decisions in cases heard will be handed down later. Presiding Judge William H. Middleton and his confederates, Judge Roscoe J. Mauck and Judge Edwin D. Saver, kept the legal mill grinding steadily until all matters were disposed of.

Poison Fells Many At Wedding

Mr. & Mrs. Conrad Kissel

Mrs. Mary O'Connell Kissel, 24, a bride of a few hours, collapsed while responding to a toast proposed by a guest at the wedding feast in New York. Her husband, Conrad Kissel, also collapsed when he strove to lift her from the floor. One by one the guests began to writhe in pain, and they too fell to the floor. Physicians attended the bride and groom and 32 of their guests and said that tainted chicken salad had poisoned them. All subsequently recovered.

SCHWARTZ TO HEAD NEW OHIO BUREAU IN HEALTH DEPT.

Former Salem Man Becomes
Chief Of Bureau Of Epidemiology.

Columbus, June 7.—(Spl.)—Radical rearrangement of some of the most important bureaus in the state department of health will become effective June 15, according to announcement today by Dr. John E. Monger, state director of health. For the first time in its history the division of vital statistics will be headed by a layman. Ohio has always had a physician at the head of this work.

Under the rearrangement of work and personnel, three positions will be abolished by consolidation resulting, Dr. Monger believes, "in material economy and great efficiency in administration."

Dr. E. J. Schwartz, former Salem resident, will resign as chief of the division of vital statistics. The vacancy will be filled by Irving C. Plummer, chief statistician. The chief statistician will be abolished.

Dr. Schwartz will become chief of the new bureau of epidemiology, division of communicable diseases, of which Dr. Frank G. Bourdeaux chief.

Dr. E. R. Shaffer of Columbus, who has been supervising the work of local health organizations, will become chief of the bureau of that name.

The bureau of venereal diseases is being detached from division of hygiene and will be put under Dr. Bourdeaux.

Nursing activities of the various bureaus heretofore performed by nurses directly attached will be performed by assignment of nurses from the new division of public health nursing, on request of the bureau chief.

U. S. Birthrate Is Declining; N. Carolina "Baby Farm"

Washington, June 7.—The birthrate in the United States is declining. Official figures of the census bureau, made public today, show 22.7 births per thousand population in 1922 compared to 24.4 for 1921.

Of the states reporting to the federal government North Carolina proved a veritable "baby farm," with a 39.2 birth rate, while in Washington the rate was but 18. These were the extremes. The southern states showed the highest birth rates. They were lowest in the northwest.

Heat Wave Broken By Storm; Damage Throughout State

Cleveland, June 7.—With the heat wave throughout the state broken today by the storm of yesterday, Ohio was taking stock of the damage wrought by lightning. A check-up today showed:

A lineman killed at Coshocton, and two others knocked unconscious. A man burned to death in a fire set by lightning which destroyed a barn at Newton Falls.

A new army dirigible, TC-1, destroyed at Dayton and two men injured when they leaped 40 feet to the ground.

Damage of 25,000 at the Grasselli powder plant at Lowellville, when 12 tons of black powder were ignited.

On the other hand the rain was of immense benefit to growing crops, the land having been badly parched by the continued drought.

New York, June 7.—Three freak storms railed to break New York's hot wave—and no immediate relief is in sight, the weatherman said today.

Several buildings were unroofed, trees uprooted and many windows smashed during the storms.

Lightning killed a 10-year-old boy in New Jersey. Samuel Goldman, 65, was found dead from heat in his home in Elizabeth, N. J.

There were six prostrations in New York.

School Boy Drowns, Body Is Recovered

Steubenville, June 7.—Harry Kirkpatrick, 15, well known school athlete, was drowned in the Ohio river, here late yesterday. Kirkpatrick was an expert swimmer but was seized with cramps. His body was recovered.

Will You Help To Restore Health To Children?

For several weeks the undernourished child has been given special attention in the public and parochial schools. Proper diet has been prescribed and the children have been fed and cared for by the school nurse.

The results have been wonderful. Every child has shown a gain in weight, some of them adding several pounds. The classes are no longer in an experimental stage. They have proved what may be accomplished.

Now Salem is preparing to join with other communities in the county in establishing a fresh air camp for those children who are undernourished. It is the advance work of the nutrition classes. Here a barrier against tuberculosis will be built up and children will be restored to normal, healthy condition.

The camp must be financed and Salem must do her share. Saving the lives of a few children every year and preventing the spread of tuberculosis cannot be measured in terms of dollars, but it requires money to start the work.

It is the appeal of humanity, a plea for healthier children. You cannot afford to turn a deaf ear to the solicitors.

Give what you can and give it cheerfully.

RENEW RIOTING IN CAR STRIKE

Schenectady, N. Y., June 7.—Renewed rioting broke out here early today when a mob attacked strikebreakers who attempted to recover two trolley cars abandoned several hours previously. One man was shot; several injured and a motorman pulled from one of the cars and assaulted.

Five shots were fired by guards employed by the company, according to police. The guards were in an automobile and when the crowd started company's barns.

Thomas McMahon, a bystander, had his chin grazed by a bullet.

Harry B. Weatherwax, president of the company, intimated today he would ask Mayor Whitman to call the state troopers.

Four trolley cars were almost completely wrecked last night. A crowd of about 5,000 gathered about the cars and police had great difficulty in escorting the strikebreakers returned to recover the cars the rioting started with renewed vigor. It was then that the shooting took place. Police say the guards drove with such speed into the barns after the shooting that they wrecked their cars.

Chester Allen, of New York, motorman on one of the cars, was taken to the hospital early today, suffering from cuts about the face. The glass in his car was smashed by a brick.

Three youths were arrested charged with rioting.

DANCE OF STATES TO BRING SHRINE CONCLAVE TO END

Hundred Thousand People
Will Dance On Staid
Pennsylvania Ave.

GREATEST DANCE NATION EVER SAW

One Band Of 6,000 Pieces
Plays Patriotic Airs
On Final Day.

Washington, June 7.—The greatest carnival that Shrinedom has ever held in its half century of its merry-making will come to a close here tonight with the greatest dance ever staged in the United States. It is called "the dance of the states."

One hundred thousand people, perhaps more, will participate in the dance and staid old Pennsylvania ave, whose history is replete with marches of pomp and power and dignity, will furnish the dance floor.

The historic avenue from the White House to the capitol, will present a mile of dancing. Shriners and their guests. The music will be furnished by two bands, the Tripoli temple band of Milwaukee, and the Alcazar temple band of Denver. They will be stationed in the rear of Sherman's statue, near the treasury. Great amplifiers set up at each corner all the way down the avenue, will make the music as audible at the capitol as it is at the White House.

Furthermore, according to those in charge of the arrangements, Californians, Iowans, New Yorkers, Floridians and people all over the country may participate if they wish. Radio will carry the strains of the music to furthestmost limits of the country.

The dance will come to a close around midnight when the dance music stops and the mile-long avenue of merry-makers will join in singing "America."

For Ohio Dancers
The garden of Allah, the court of Shrinedom in front of the White House, will be reserved for dancers from Ohio, the home state of President Harding, and those from Alabama, California, New York and the District of Columbia.

Other states have specially reserved sections of the avenue all the way from the White House to the capitol.

The spectacle to be presented tonight by the mile of dancers, tripping under the myriad carnival lights of the avenue, is expected to be one of the most splendid ever staged.

Today, the last of the Shrine convention, saw another great spectacle—a single band of approximately 6,000 pieces, playing patriotic airs.

The 110 bands which accompanied the various delegations to Washington amalgamated under the leadership of John Philip Sousa in the American League ball park for a concert. The sound of the music welled over the capital like a strong wind.

STATE APPROVES NEW WATER WELL

Work Of Laying Pipe Will Be Started At Once
Says Bristol.

The new well drilled in near Prospect st. recently has been accepted for use by the state department of health. It was announced Thursday by Earl Roberts, Columbus, assistant chief engineer of the state health department.

This well was drilled by the city under supervision of Service Director John Bristol, to provide an additional water supply until the permanent solution is reached by city council. Drilling of the well was authorized by State Health Engineer W. H. Dittoe when he visited Salem some weeks ago.

Work on the laying of pipe from the well to the pumping station will be started immediately, Director Bristol announced. Shortage of labor may handicap operations to a certain extent and the director has announced his need of 25 laborers immediately. The city is paying 50 cents an hour for labor.

Roberts left Thursday after inspecting the water system and disposal plant here.

The Pathfinder

NO MAN liveth unto himself alone. All need pathfinders. Newton, the scientist, said, "If I have achieved anything in science it is because I have stood on the shoulders of giants."

The young student takes it as a matter of course that he shall follow the old masters. If music, he sits at the feet of great guides—Bach, Beethoven, Chopin. If art, he works for hours before copies of the great masters—Raphael, Michael-Angelo, Murillo. The student not only knows the value of the pathfinder, but is happy to acknowledge the debt he owes these immortals.

So it is in business. The man who forges to the front in industrial or commercial life is the man who is closely in touch with everything the leaders in his line are doing. Business men are not ashamed to follow the pathfinder.

The greater the man, the more frankly does he acknowledge his debt to men still greater than himself. Plato sat the feet of Socrates, Aristotle at the feet of Plato. Raphael learned his art from Angelo, and Correggio from Raphael.

President McKinley said he owed the inspiration of his career to Abraham Lincoln. While Lincoln pointed reverently to Washington as his guide.

None but a fool feels himself to be self sufficient. The best of men must acknowledge their masters. Few there are in the galaxy of world stars that shine by themselves without the added lustre of borrowed glory.

It is not weakness to have a pathfinder, but rather a mark of good sense.

Proof Of Prosperity

THE latest issue of treasury notes has been oversubscribed about two and a half times. A part of the subscriptions was represented by the exchange of Victory notes that fell due on May 20, but the entire amount is surplus funds that the people are willing to lend to the government. The huge excess offering is the direct result of the tremendous prosperity that the country is enjoying.

League Slept On

WAR between Great Britain and soviet Russia is said to be improbable. But the league of nations can take no credit for warding off the conflict. Despite the exchange of sharp notes that might easily lead to an open break, the league's serenity has not been disturbed.

WONDERFUL PIECE OF WORK

Few Realize the Amount of Material and Labor in Audio-Frequency Transformer.

Little does the average radio novice realize the elaborate workmanship which enters into the usual audio-frequency transformer. Indeed, the low price of such devices tends to conceal their elaborateness, but the low price is due solely to a cut-throat competition which brings down selling prices irrespective of quality and cost of manufacture. Thus one of the best known transformers on the market has 3,800 turns of No. 40 enameled wire for the primary winding. Glassine paper is used between layers, and a one-eighth inch paper projection on each end serves for mechanical protection. The secondary winding is separated from the primary winding by three thicknesses of 605-inch moleskin paper, and has 13,300 turns of No. 40 enameled wire with the same insulation and end protection. The primary and the secondary leads are 16 strands of No. 38 bare copper wire stranded together and covered with one wrapping of green silk. The coil is impregnated under vacuum process in a compound consisting of beeswax and rosin, and is covered with black pebbled book-binder's cloth.

While John Brown, who lives near Lisbon, was hauling hay to Salem last night, the rope which was used to tie the hay to the car broke and he fell directly in front of a passing auto driven by Mr. Alcorn of Youngstown. Despite the best efforts of Mr. Alcorn, the hay cap of his machine hit Brown in the side, making a bad bruise. Alcorn took the man to Lisbon where he was given medical attention and left for his home.

HURT BY BURSTING FUNGUS

Exploding Puffball Cause of Somewhat Unusual Accident at Valenciennes, French City.

At Valenciennes, France, two people have been rendered so ill by the bursting of a giant fungus that medical aid was required. The fungus was a huge puffball (Calvatia), a species which is often considerably larger than a man's head. The fungus which was growing in the wainscoting of a workman's cottage suddenly burst open releasing enormous numbers of spores. An idea of the vast quantities of spores produced by these puffballs may be gathered from the fact that one specimen examined at the Birmingham university, England, was calculated to have produced no less than 7,000,000,000,000. Many puffballs release their spores through a small opening at the top, but the Calvatia split right open more or less suddenly. The spores of these fungi have an intensely irritating effect on the lining of the nose and throat and it can be believed that the sudden bursting of a large Calvatia in a small apartment would have most unpleasant effects.

Formerly, we now learn, the spores of puffballs were used in place of stuff, seeing that a small pinch would bring on the most violent sneezing. The Calvatia often turns up in most unexpected places and will grow where there is any damp material like rotting wood or suitable soil and moss. —Scientific American.

PLAYGOER SOUNDS A WARNING

Like a Great Many of Us, He Is Tired of Stage Scene That Has Been Overdone.

I'm just like you, I'm getting fed up on all these who-fired-the-shot-in-the-dark plays. You know: the stage blots out—there's a bang—and when the lights flash on again, the old miser—Yes, that's it. And then we have to guess who fired the shot.

I always go at the thing logically and analytically. The miser, I premise, has been shot. But that leaves me with the problem: who is who? So I recapitulate and, to throw new light on the thing, restate the whole problem: was he shot by whom? Or is it who? And who is who? But that's the same "who is who" I had before. Or whom? No, no; whom was it shot who by—

And at that stage I always give up cold ratiocination and settle back to wait till the playwright confesses. By this time I don't much care who killed the ghostly miser anyway. Nor does anyone else. And yet for almost three solid hours, they continue—

But, as I say, I'm fed up. And the next time—I give fair warning—the very next time they provoke me by that stunt of turning on the lights at the critical moment, they're never going to find out who shot the old miser. I'm going to shoot him myself. —G. R. in Life.

Needless to Say.

I had been married but a short time and was keeping house in a strange town when the minister called early one evening.

I had been away from home for a few days and had neglected to dust the house upon my return. As it was almost dusk when my caller arrived, I hoped he would leave before it became necessary to turn on the lights. But as it grew darker and darker, until finally we could scarcely distinguish any article in the room, I excused the darkness by saying the connection had not been made in this town.

Just as the minister declared he must be going my husband returned unexpectedly from town, and, turning on the light as he entered the room, exclaimed, "Why all the darkness?" That minister never saw me among his congregation after that. —Chicago Tribune.

Defining Its Status.

Senator James W. Stoddard of New York tells this story in the New York Herald: "Some years ago the army appropriation bill carried a rider providing for the retirement, with full pay, of a certain brigadier general. The rider was opposed by some members of the senate, chiefly because it was special legislation. It caused considerable discussion.

"Hoke Smith, then in the senate from Georgia, finally made a point of order against the rider.

"Thomas R. Marshall, who was vice president, was in the chair and asked Senator Smith to state the point of order.

"It is general legislation," Senator Smith declared.

"Overruled," snapped Vice President Marshall; "it is brigadier-general legislation."

Radio Crooks' Nemesis.

The installation of radio receiving apparatus by police departments of various cities is gradually forming a network of communication that will undoubtedly prove to be a mighty factor in the apprehension of law-breakers. The more important points on the border of the United States, Canada and Mexico are now well lined by the new means of communication.

French Radio Regulations.

A decree of the French government provides that each owner of a receiving set shall pay 10 francs as an annual fee, keep secret all intercepted messages and cease operations when the government so instructs.

Mozt-Burt Nuptials

The home of the bride's brother, Guy Motz, at 2183 Grandview ave., Cleveland, was the scene of a beautiful wedding at 6 p. m. Wednesday, when Miss Helen Motz became the wife of Eldridge V. Burt, this city. Dr. Simons, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church of Akron, read the nuptial ceremony.

The Motz residence was artistically decorated with floral creations, the flowers consisting of roses, sweet peas, peonies and smilax. In the presence of 40 relatives and close associates the ceremony was performed. Those in the bridal party were Miss Midge McDonald of Cleveland, who was bridesmaid, little Jane Motz as ring bearer and Dr. H. Keltner, best man.

Mrs. Burt appeared in an exquisite gown of white silk crepe, a bridal veil draped and caught with orange blossoms and she wore a corsage bouquet of lilies and orchids. Miss McDonald was attired in orchid georgette combined with orchid silk and she carried a bouquet of roses. The ring bearer, Jane Motz, was daintily frocked in white and she carried pink sweetpeas.

Preceding the service, Russell Wise, inmate friend of the contracting parties, sang two vocal solos. An orchestra provided music preceding and following the wedding ceremony and played the wedding march as the bridal party wended its way to the first floor where the service was read amid a shower of floral loveliness.

A reception and musicale furnished entertainment for the guests after the nuptials and a wedding dinner was served on the lawn at the Motz home. Cleveland caterers had charge of this feature of the entertainment and the guests were seated at "nest tables," each of which was prettily ornamented with baskets of flowers.

The wedding is the culmination of a romance developing about one year ago when Miss Motz and Mr. Burt met on their way to a Shriners convention in San Francisco, where the groom sang with the Al Koran Shriners chorus. The bride is also a talented musician.

Mr. Burt is the son of Mrs. J. H. Daum, Salem, and is manager of the Hemminger store in this city. After a ten-day wedding trip to Chicago and other points of interest Mr. and Mrs. Burt will return to Salem. Until their plans are completed for the future they will reside with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Daum, Jennings ave.

Those from Salem attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Daum, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Stoner and Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Smucker. Other guests came from Warren, Medina, Akron and Cleveland. Among the guests were three sisters of the groom and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hatch and Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Dillow of Medina, and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Barker of Warren. Another couple known among Salemites present at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hemminger of Medina.

Plans To Introduce Beer Bill In Congress.

Fred A. Britten

Rep. Fred D. Britten, Republican, of Illinois, a "wet" leader, has announced his intention of introducing a beer-and-light-wines bill on the first day of the new congress. In an explanatory statement he declared that $700,000,000—more than enough to run the entire army and navy for a year—could be produced in revenue by permitting the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer under federal tax. "Such a tax would be paid more cheerfully than any other the government could impose," he declared. "It would not only take care of a soldiers' bonus, but would pay off the whole national debt in 20 years."

Farmer Invents Kaferita.

The development was made by Mr. Pierce in co-operation with the experiment station of the Kansas State Agricultural college after several years' work, and the new crop has been named kaferita.

KLAN IS EXPLAINED AT LISBON MEETING

Organization Of Branch At County Seat May Follow Address.

Lisbon, June 7.—Representatives of the Ku Klux Klan conducted a meeting here Wednesday evening at which time a speaker presented an address on "Pure Americanism" to about 100 Lisbon men. Admission to the meeting was secured only on invitation and several were turned away.

It is said that the speaker outlined the policies of the Klan and its relationship to religious organizations. In defense of the Klan, the speaker stated that other religious organizations had secret societies to which those differing from them in religious views were not admitted, therefore it was logical that the Protestants should have an organization to which only Protestants who were native born Americans should have an organization.

It could not be learned whether a branch of the order would be formed in Lisbon but it is possible that from the attendance at the meeting Wednesday night a Klan will be formed here.

It has been alleged for some time that there were a large number of local men who were affiliated with the Klan and that for some time these members have been quietly working to secure a local body.

FLAMES DESTROY BIG ARMY BLIMP

Dayton, June 7.—The United States army dirigible TC-1, the newest lighter-than-air craft built for the service, was destroyed by fire shortly after it moored at Wilbur Wright field here last night.

The ship, which was the largest of its kind in this country, was destroyed during a severe electrical storm. It came to Dayton last night from Scott field, Illinois, on a test flight.

Sergeant Harry Barnes, Scott field, and A. C. Maranville, Akron representative of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., which built the ship, were injured when they jumped to feet to the ground, when the big bag caught fire.

Barnes' ankle was broken and his knee sprained. Maranville suffered a crushed ankle and a sprained arm. He is in Miami Valley hospital while Barnes is in the Post hospital.

The ship was flown to Dayton by a crew of ten men under Lieut. Clyde Kuntz.

Lieut. Kuntz and other members of the crew left the ship shortly before the accident. The great ship had been moored to one of the steel towers when it was caught in the wind and swung around, coming in contact with another steel post. The bag was highly charged with electricity and the connection with the two steel towers caused the explosion.

The TC-1 was of the same size as the TC-2, which was destroyed by fire at San Antonio, Tex., last year, after completing a transcontinental flight. It cost $40,000 to build.

SCOUTS TO REPORT FOR TRIP SATURDAY

Five Salem Troops Entered In County Field Meet At E. Liverpool.

All Boy Scouts who wish to take advantage of the trip to the county rally and field meet at Liverpool Saturday at the reduced fare of 75 cents made possible by the generosity of the Salem Rotary club, are requested to report at the Y. and O. terminal on Ellsworth ave., at 7:45 a. m. Saturday. Scouts chosen to represent their troops in the events will be given first preference. It will be possible to accommodate a few parents or relatives who desire to make the trip.

Five Salem troops will be entered and each one is determined to bring back the championship, which has been held for the last three years by Troop 1 of this city. Troops 3, 4 and 7 have been practicing faithfully and ought to stand high in the final percentage column. East Liverpool and East Palestine made excellent records last year and are regarded as strong championship contenders, while Lisbon, Wellsville and Hanoverton are reported to have some clever performers among their scout troops.

The East Liverpool Rotary club is paying the expenses of the meet, and great credit is due to Lee R. Chamberlain, scout commissioner of Salem for creating such widespread interest in the annual event. After years of experience in developing scouting in Troop 1 of Salem, he is turning his energies toward building up the work in Salem and throughout Columbiana county. He has received valuable aid from the Salem Rotary and Kiwanis clubs which made possible the organization of a second class council here.

GERMANY'S OFFER SUGGESTS PARLEY

Would Let Conference Fix Amount Of Reparations Berlin Must Pay.

London, June 7.—Germany's new reparations offer which was delivered to the foreign office this afternoon suggests a conference with the Allies to fix the amount of reparations Germany must pay and the method of paying.

Germany embassy officials predicted if the offer was unacceptable, the Cuno government at Berlin will resign.

The note said if an international loan is impracticable Germany is ready to substitute a system of annuities.

Germany offers to guarantee receipts from railroads, setting aside for the reparations account 500,000,000 gold marks annually, beginning July 1, 1927.

The government promises to subject business, banking, industry, agriculture and traffic to a first mortgage levying tax which will yield 500,000,000 gold marks annually.

Customs and excess duties are pledged and it is estimated these will bring about 200,000,000 gold marks every year.

THE PICTURE

By JANE GORDON

DULCIE told her troubles to the cat. There was no one else to whom she might tell them without seeming to ask favor. She had fought bravely in the city and managed to complete her art studies against all the discouraging prophecies of home-town friends. But these studies had used the small legacy left her by her mother.

Dulcie had made a fairly good start on the way to the career that she had planned. Orders for pictures came, if not frequently, occasionally. But on this particular morning, when snow beat against the high windows—for Dulcie's corner of the city apartment building was very near the roof—she was recovering from that unpleasant winter malady, the grip. And she was discouraged over her losses. The black cat winked his golden eyes sympathetically in response to her confidence, as he nestled in Dulcie's arms.

"If," she bewailed, "I might only arouse the professional interest of one of the real artists in this building, an order or two might come my way. But how to meet them! The President is not more difficult to approach."

Dulcie was weary of silent walls, the sound of her own voice seemed companionable.

"One may not present one's self to a successful busy artist, without a line of introduction. And anyway, I just will not go begging. So, putting aside our hopes and dreams, in present need, I'll cook the slice of bacon. 'Poor Peter,' she comforted whimsically, 'you do not like bacon. Do you suppose if I were to let you out into the labyrinth of the high hall you might be able to spy a fat mouse somewhere?'

The black cat purred and sped down the apartment hall toward a ventilating roof window.

Far as the east is from the west seemed the lower luxurious studios of Philip Duncomb, illustrator. And though the noted Philip had not Dulcie's problems of ways and means the matter which brought a furrow to his handsome brow was no less taxing. Freedoms, the author, must have the "Home" picture for his story, and Philip could not find the face of the woman who must fit into his interpretation of the author's fancy.

The picture which he had mentally built satisfied him in its true home spirit—the fireside, with the sweet-faced woman waiting before it, a cat cosily stretched on the hearth, an old-fashioned picture that caught at the heart strings—the home that had been.

Philip closed the door on his last impossible model. She had more the appearance of a cabaret dancer than a wife of the hearth. Impatiently he flung wide a window to let out the smoke of his cigar. As he opened the window Peter, who had come by various perilous ways of roof and cornice, accepted the opening as an invitation and stepped puringly inside.

The dark eyes of the artist widened. Then he smiled. "As I live," said Philip Duncomb, "the very cat for my picture—crimson tied neck ribbon and all." But Peter, before he might be persuaded to pose, made known his price. His pathetic mewling could mean but one thing—that it was dinner hour.

Dulcie, passing through the lower floor hall heard a wild mewling, which to her trained ears could mean only her pet's cry for help. "Now who," the girl asked herself, "could have let Peter into that apartment and kept him there?" She rang the studio bell, impressed by the cat above it, proclaiming the place to be inhabited by the famous Philip Duncomb. A woman who cared for the artist's rooms opened the door. Dulcie explained her errand. "It sounded like my cat," she apologized, and he has been absent all day.

"I'd be glad enough to let him out and stop the racket," the woman returned, "but Mr. Duncomb locked the cat in to sketch. He does not like his plans disturbed. I expect him back in a few minutes. Maybe you'd like to step in and wait."

Peter's cries for rescue continued. Dulcie entered the studio. The beautiful room was golden from its many shaded lights when Philip Duncomb returned. Seated before his fireside the red glow of the logs gleaming against her brown hair revealed the sweet-faced woman of his mental picture of "Home." Expectantly, he stood. Dulcie turned her blue eyes toward him.

"I wonder," said Philip, under the inspiration of the moment, "if you would kindly remain as you are?"

With a stride he opened the closet door and released Peter. It was Dulcie, when she understood, who coaxed the cat to rest on the velvet cushion at her feet. So, sympathizing in the artist's dream, seated in the luxurious warmth of his fireside, a great content enveloped her. Her wish had come true.

"I believe," she said, when Philip Duncomb laid his sketch aside, "that Peter planned this entrance, after my talk with him this morning."

"Tell me about it," the artist smilingly encouraged.

Dulcie told her blue eyes wistful in the telling. Nearby, the waiting woman placed cups for chocolate.

And when the picture of "Home" was a successful reality, when there was no further need of Dulcie's services as a model it so marvelously happened that the artist wished to build for himself a life picture, with Dulcie the central figure. And as they sat, these two before their own fireside, Peter is there on the velvet cushion.

MANY RETAILERS
DECLARES EXPERT
STRUGGLE ALONG

Atlantic City, N. J., June 7.—Several hundred thousand retail merchants in this country would be better off as bricklayers and plasterers rather than to continue their present business, Roger W. Babson told the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World today.

"There are 1,500,000 retailers in the United States today," he said, "and 100,000 of them are doing a profitable business and 400,000 more are doing a fair business; but a million of these retailers are barely struggling along."

A large portion operate at a loss. Those who are not operating at a loss are merely getting day wages and small day wages at best.

"Yet the retailers of the country bear the same relation to the country's industries as the common soldier bears to an army. The prosperity of the country is ultimately dependent upon the efficiency and prosperity of the retailers."

"Some say that there are a million too many retailers and the solution is to eliminate several hundred thousand of them. The solution lies, not in eliminating a million retailers but in showing them how they can work efficiently and how they can be of the greatest possible service. This is the great task facing American business men today."

Contracts For 75
Houses In Sebring

Sebring, June 7.—Contracts for 75 houses have been let by O. H. Sebring to Contractors J. G. Tolerton of Alliance; F. L. Morgan of Youngstown and T. H. Dillman of Youngstown. The cellars for a number of these houses have been excavated and the carpenters will soon be at work on them.

Distribution of Rainfall.

Presence or absence of dust particles in the atmosphere does not, in the opinion of meteorologists, have anything to do with the distribution of rainfall. As a rule, far more dust particles are present in the atmosphere everywhere than would be essential, were the dust hypothesis correct, to bring about abundance of precipitation. On the other hand, enormous quantities of rainfall occur over the oceans where there is least dust. Some places in the Hawaiian Islands have an annual rainfall exceeding 500 inches, and yet the air is nearly dust free. The most dust in the atmosphere, except near industrial cities, occurs over dry and semi-arid regions.

Railroads Have Best of It.

Assemblyman A. F. Johnson of Chattanooga, states:

"Back in 1880," he explains, "a law was passed which required railroads and traction lines to cut the Canada thistles, dandelions and other weeds along their right of way. Labor was cheap then and the law provided that if a railroad failed to do the work the farmer could employ a man to cut the weeds and bill the railroad at the rate of $3 a day."

"Now with labor charging $5 and $8 a day the companies in many cases find it cheaper to let the farmer do the work. My bill would allow the farmer to charge the road $8 a day if he has the work done."—New York Sun.

War Paint Flower.

One of our earliest flowers is the bloodroot, or Indian paint. Break the stem of flower or root and you discover the reason for the name, for there immediately flows from the wound a reddish fluid which somewhat resembles blood and will stain whatever it comes in contact with, says Nature Magazine. It is said that this juice was once used by the Indians as a war paint and, mixed with sugar, by mothers as a cure for their children's coughs and colds.

She had such a pretty cretonne laundry bag—shower gift from one of the girls. It hung on the first hook in the bedroom closet and George was being patiently trained to "pick up your things and put them in the bag, dear, don't leave them on the floor!"

But long before George was perfect in this practice, the cretonne bag began to bulge and the lid on the towel hamper would shut down. And when there wasn't a single clean pink apron in the cabinet drawer, the Little Bride knew she was face to face with that monstrosity—The Laundry Problem!

MOTHER PENSION FUND INADEQUATE

Plan to Meet Situation Put Into Operation in Ohio.

MINORS COMMITTED TO STATE

Decision to Be Reached Soon on the Question of Bringing a Referendum Against the Taft Taxation Act. "Pageant of Memories" to Feature Ohio Grand Army Reunion—League of Women Voters' Maxim.

Columbus, June 7.—According to state officials the mothers' pension fund has been found so inadequate that in many counties in Ohio families needing relief can not be properly cared for, and to meet the situation a plan has been put into operation whereby children are committed temporarily by the juvenile court to the division of charities, and then boarded with their own mothers. The bills incurred in such instances are charged back to the county in which the family lives. The state is responsible for the supervision of the family, and for seeing that the money is spent properly.

In every instance it has been found that the mother is competent to rear her own children. The amount of money expended in boarding these children in their own homes is much less than the per capita cost in an institution. During the term of Attorney General Price, he ruled that this plan of caring for dependent children was legal.

The Crawford county juvenile court committed the first specialized boarding case. The "wanderlust" struck the father of seven children one pleasant day, and the lure of the road was stronger than his sense of responsibility to his wife and children. The only excuse for removing the children from their mother was an economic one. The Crawford county judge, thinking that this would be inhuman, decided to commit the children to the state of Ohio. A worker helped the mother to determine a budget sufficient to meet her needs and this amount was paid to her monthly. That mother was made to feel that she was rendering a real service to the state by rearing her children in this way.

Greene county has committed more such cases through her juvenile court than any other one county in Ohio. One mother with six children was given $50 per month, and with that she could keep her children together and make a home for all of them. That is the great object of the state in dealing with its dependent children.

By this plan of helping the mother and enabling her to keep her home and her children together, many families have become self-supporting in a short time. Had these homes been broken up, and the children placed in an institution, they would have remained there several years, and at a greater expense to the state and county, to say nothing of the loss of a normal family life at home.

A decision will probably be reached this week on the question of bringing a referendum against the Taft taxation bill, which is the target of the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards. The executive committee of the organization is to hold another meeting here, at the call of President John E. McCrehen, who was appealed to by the Cincinnati real estate board to give its representatives another chance to appeal in behalf of the bill. Representative Taft of Cincinnati, author of the bill, is also expected to appear before the committee with a renewal of his requests for favorable action.

According to President McCrehen, the various real estate boards around the state are voting in favor of a referendum, 2 to 1. Unless halted by referendum proceedings the bill becomes a law late in July.

If finance companies take a chance with run-runners in advancing them money with which to purchase automobiles, they stand to lose when police confiscate and sell the automobile for court costs. Such is the substance of an opinion handed down here by City Attorney Leach on the claim of the Motors-Bankers corporation of Detroit, Mich., to collect $107.44 on a chattel mortgage which they hold against the auto of Cecil Brady, who was arrested here for alleged run-running activities. Brady was convicted of illegally transporting liquor. His car was sold by police and after court costs were paid the city received $73.14 and the state a like amount from the proceeds of the sale. The Motors-Bankers corporation filed a claim of $107.44, with counsel alleging that this amount was due on a chattel mortgage which they held against Brady's car. The city attorney holds that the city is in no way responsible for the payment of this claim.

Miss Belle Sherwin, Cleveland, a director-at-large of the Ohio League of Women Voters and first vice president of the national league declared that "the most powerful factors in the world today are clear ideas in the minds of energetic men and women of good will"—this will be the maxim for the coming year under which the Ohio league will work.

Miss Sherwin is devoting her time to "boosting" the school of citizenship, to open under auspices of the league at Columbia university July 16. The course is open to the public exactly as other summer courses are and women from many places, including Ohio, will enroll. "It is a brand new thing in summer schools," asserts Miss Sherwin. Ohio, according to Miss Juliette C. Sessions, state league president, has not announced the names of women who will attend the school, but it is hoped that representatives from various Ohio cities will be enrolled.

When the Taft tax act becomes effective, it is going to be a new experience for Ohio city, township and school board officials. Heretofore it has been to these officials simply a question of getting from the budget commission all the law would permit and then expending the money without further control of the budget board.

Under the Taft act it is going to be different. These officials must submit the usual budget and thereafter they can not appropriate or expend any money for purposes not stated in the budget, nor can they appropriate or expend any more than the budget commission has allowed for any specific purpose, no matter how much more money they get from other unexpected sources.

At the beginning of each fiscal year these officials must appropriate funds for the several objects for which money must be provided. Copy of such appropriations shall be filed with the county auditor within one month, and the auditor shall check amounts with allowances of the budget commission. If any appropriation exceeds the allowance the officials shall be notified and the appropriation ordinance is then void, until revised to meet the proper amounts.

Ohio Grand Army veterans will meet in Columbus the week of June 26, for the annual state encampment. A pageant that will rekindle memories of the past will be a feature of the meeting. It will contain scenes of peace before the call to arms; the assembling of volunteers when the rude shock of Sumter's assault was heard; scenes showing the boys in blue perishing from their loved ones; the battlefield bivouac, with soldiers of the Union gathered around their campfire; the reconciliation between the Blue of the North and the Gray of the South—scenes which will enable the graying veterans to live again in the bloom of youth, when they first answered their country's call for defenders.

The spectacle will be called a "Pageant of Memories." It will be presented the evening of June 26 under the auspices of the Columbus Convention association, which has charge of the registration and entertainment of visitors, who will gather in Columbus for the encampment.

Ruth Moulgey Worrell, well known pageant writer, has written the scenes and will assume direction of the production. More than 2,000 persons will participate, including 1,000 children from Columbus public schools. Among organizations supporting, and expected to take part in the pageant in one way or another, are included the American Legion, Columbus Boy Scouts, the City Federation of Women's clubs, the Spanish-American War Veterans, the G. A. R. and all auxiliaries. The entire west front of the Statehouse will be utilized for the pageant.

The first scene will show America, surrounded by school children, pledging their loyalty. With this portrayal will be mingled dances suggesting the sense of peace and security preceding war. Then Lincoln's call to arms will come, with scenes showing the departure of the soldiers, to be followed by a campfire scene, in which 50 soldiers will be used. Other scenes will show Southern life, with familiar songs and melodies; the role the women played in the war; reconciliation of the North and South in which the characters of Lincoln, Lee and Grant will be portrayed; home coming of the soldiers and the shock which followed the news of Lincoln's assassination.

The finale will shift the setting to the present and will bring in four generations of American manhood. Civil War, Spanish-American and World War veterans and Boy Scouts.

The new concession law will be the principal topic for discussion at a meeting of the Ohio Fair Boys' association to hold here this week at the Deshler hotel. More than 90 county fair managers from all parts of Ohio are expected to attend the meeting. Myers W. Cooper of Cincinnati will preside as president and Helen S. Maher, Columbus, secretary, also will attend. Other topics for discussion will be the value of county fair publicity, sanitary conditions and automobile parking and safety.

Tourists Cause Forest Fires.

According to the annual report of the forest service, United States Department of Agriculture, a large part of the danger to the national forests from man-caused fires is due to the seasonal influx of tourists, campers, hunters and fishermen, and other visitors from the cities and from distant parts of the country. A national campaign of public education on the subject of forest fires is demanded, if the task of protection of the vast area of the national forests from Maine and Florida and California and Washington is to be successfully performed.

It Must Have Been Terrible.

One morning when I returned to school after an illness I was told to go to the principal for an excuse. I went to his office, taking my report card. Entering the office, I walked to the principal's desk.

He held out his hand and, supposing he wished to shake hands, I put my hand in his and shook it. Imagine my embarrassment when he said: "I did not mean to shake hands. I wanted your report card."—Exchange.

PAUL REVERE RIDES AGAIN

Patriotic Observance in Which City of Boston and Other Communities Take Part.

In a patriotic observance the city of Boston, with the co-operation of several adjoining communities, in accordance with an annual custom, commemorated the famous midnight ride of Paul Revere. The celebration in Boston began the night before April 19, "Patriot's Day," when a descendant of one of Paul Revere's contemporaries hung a lantern in the belfry of the Old North church, just as was done on the night of April 18, 1775. Then on April 19 the ride to Lexington was repeated by a man on horseback, dressed to resemble Paul Revere, and who followed the route taken on that historic occasion. The messenger departed from the quaint little house in North Square where the real Paul Revere plied his trade as a silversmith, the crowded Italian quarter the old house stands undisturbed among the modern buildings that rise above it on all sides.

In spite of the momentous consequences of that 18-mile ride in the Eighteenth century, comparatively few persons saw Paul Revere as he raced from hamlet to hamlet to spread the alarm of the British advance. The population, of course, was small; and besides, the only thing which the lightest sleepers could have seen as they tumbled from bed was a flurry of dust and a dim figure disappearing in the dawn.

TOWN CRIER NOT OBSOLETE

Villages Along the Rhine Still Employ Him as a Dispenser of General Information.

The town crier is still an established institution in towns and villages along the Rhine. With drum and bell he summons the housewives to the windows and sings his news in a whining monotone.

Officers of the French forces order that all lights shall be out at 10 o'clock. No one allowed on the streets after that hour. Herr Bingen has received a new shipment of women's underwear and shawls which he will sell very cheap. The dollar is worth 15,500 marks to day. One German killed and two wounded by the enemy sentries in Essen. Twins were born at the house of Herr Gortzen, who lives by the fountain in Bismarckplatz.

The echoes die away down the narrow streets; the windows and doors slam; the bell rings again as the old man plops down the rough pavement to the next corner where the story is sung all over again. And so on until all the village has heard the news.

Dogs Efficient Guardians.

The treasures of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts are guarded each night by two giant police dogs who are trained to refuse to accompany anyone but the watchman who has charge of them. At intervals, each night they are led through the darkened galleries. All employees have been cautioned against remaining in the building after hours because of the danger of attack by the powerful canines. But for the intervention of the watchman, recently, an official of the museum, who stayed until late in the evening, would have been torn to pieces.

The Dance.

Silver wreaths and snow white waistcoats, tulle and gold-tipped cigarettes, satin slippers and pearl studs, champagne punch and rubber plants, introductions and orchids, waxed floors and interminable waltzes. "Neath a South Sea Moon" and three no-trumps, stepped-on toes and invitations to dinner the following Thursday, wilted collars and strawberry ice. A gathering of stags in the pantry, promises to telephone the next morning, the host surreptitiously glancing at the clock every five minutes.—From Life.

Handicapped.

A New York friend of mine returned from his golfing the other day. "Have a good game?" he was asked. "Rotten!" he replied. "What was the trouble?" "Oh, it was all my caddy's fault. He had the hiccup. Every time he hiccuped, I'd miss my stroke; and every time he didn't hiccup, I'd miss it just because I was waiting for the hiccup to come!"—Christian Work.

Knew Him First.

Our days of courtship were short and I had met few of my husband's relatives before we were married.

Jane is fond of her uncle, Fred and had not seen him for several months when he came home to visit, and I said: "You don't know this man, dear, do you?" Jane readily answered: "That's my uncle. I knowed him fore you did."—Exchange.

Natural Question.

Two recent arrivals in a small country town entered a druggist's shop to buy some distemper for coloring a wall in their new residence.

A nervous-looking assistant came forward.

In reply to the question: "Do you keep distemper?" he stammered: "Is it, is it for dogs?"

Dogs Brought Them Together.

A new family had moved into our neighborhood. They had a small boy and also a dog. Our son had a dog. The first day the boys became chummy.

On being asked how they got acquainted so soon, son said: "O, our dogs interduced us."—Exchange.

Charge that up to vibration.

Vibration causes cars to grow old prematurely by racking their chassis, destroying the "metal life" of vital parts, loosening up their bodies and causing squeaks and rattles. Frequent, costly repairs are the result.

The Studebaker Light-Six is free from vibration than any car of its approximate size or weight yet produced.

This has been accomplished largely by a complete machining of the crankshaft and connecting rods on all surfaces—a practice used by Studebaker exclusively on cars at this price and found only on a very few other cars whose selling prices are from three to ten times as high as the Light-Six.

THIS IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR

MAY PUT T-2 BY LANGLEY'S FOLLY

SUGGESTION THAT NON-STOP
PLANE BE PLACED IN THE SMITHSONIAN.

TWENTY YEARS OF AVIATION

Performance of the Cross-Continental
Flyer Is Believed to Open Up Vast Possibilities—Air Travel Now Is Held Safe.

By EDWARD B. CLARK

Washington.—Twenty years intervened between the successful flight of the first heavier-than-air machine known as "Langley's Folly" and that of the T-2, which made the non-stop journey from coast to coast in about twenty-seven hours.

In the Smithsonian Institution in Washington in an honored place Langley's Folly is shown to visitors. Not far from it is a memorial to the undisciplined inventor who in the face of ridicule and something approaching contempt persevered until he proved that a heavier-than-air machine, motor driven, could be made to fly under direction and to carry weight.

It has been suggested in Washington that, if the T-2 is found to represent the "beyond, which nothing" in air planes, it be placed side by side with Langley's Folly to accentuate and to prove that the people may scoff, but that a courageous man with an idea still can point the way to highest achievement.

It is thought here that the performance of the T-2 proves many things of service to a nation in peace and war. The punitive possibilities of a machine which can travel nearly 3,000 miles without a stop are said to be almost incalculable. So far as peace service is concerned, the trip of the T-2 opens up a field of possibilities so extensive that man as yet cannot visualize nor readily understand all that may be done.

Air Travel Held to Be Really Safe.

Already in Washington "trunk lines" of airplanes are seen for the carriage of passengers and freight, in limited numbers and quantities. It is true, across the great distances of the country from city to city. Naturally enough there still is the element of the fear of most people to embark upon air voyages. The civilian population apparently yet has to be educated to overcome the dread of air travel. Army and navy men of all countries overcame it long ago, notwithstanding the fact that years from the time of Langley's Folly to the present day contain a voluminous record of death and disaster. However, aviators today maintain that air travel is safe and that it will take only a few years of education and experience to overcome the general timidity which prevails.

There have been many martyrs to the development of the air service. It should be said of all of them, however, they embarked voluntarily on the voyages which ended in disaster. There seems to be a sort of spirit in the aviation service in times of peace which exists in no other service except in times of war when men are willing to do and dare everything in behalf of their country. Of course there is not the same opportunity in other services in peace times to risk life that there is in the service of the air. If there were these opportunities it is probable that American manhood would meet them in whatever field they were to present themselves.

It was only a few years after Langley's Folly made the flight which proved that a heavier-than-air machine really could fly and that air travel was a certainty of the near future, that the United States government bought its first aircraft for military service. The experiments were made under the direction of the Wright brothers a few miles outside of the city of Washington. Every day members of congress deserted the capitol, to be joined by thousands of residents of the city, to go to the scene of the trials, upon the success of which was to depend the purchase of the planes by Uncle Sam.

Disaster Didn't Discourage.

There was a disaster during the experiments, but it was proved that airplanes were fairly safe and were capable of carrying men and of being directed by them to any destination. One of the Wright brothers, accompanied by Lieutenant Selfridge of the army, a son of Admiral Selfridge of the navy, made the first experimental flights. One day something broke while the plane was several hundred feet above the earth. An ineffectual attempt was made to land properly, but the machine fell, killing Lieutenant Selfridge and badly injuring his companion.

The death of the intrepid army officer did not stop the demonstrations to prove the usefulness of the machines. Other army officers volunteered for the service. Many successful flights were made and the airplane became one of Uncle Sam's servants and weapons.

There never has been the slightest difficulty in getting volunteers for the air service for either the army or navy. There always has been a waiting list of men anxious to fly. There was a time when the percentage of deaths ran high, but there were just as many volunteers in those days as there are today when the percentage of accidents is extremely low.

A GOOD WAY TO UPSET PRICES

Further Exposures of How Edison-Ford Money Plan Would Fail to Aid Farmer.

The way the Edison-Ford "commodity money" scheme, aimed to stabilize monetary values, would have exactly the opposite effect, is discussed in the present article, which is the second in a series prepared by the American Bankers Association, reviewing the exposure of the weaknesses of the plan as presented by William T. Foster, Director of the Pollack Foundation for Economic Research.

Briefly stated, the Edison-Ford plan provides for Government warehousing of basic commodities, against which currency would be loaned to the producer without interest, up to half the average value of the products for the previous twenty-five years. This currency would be cancelled as the commodities were withdrawn and passed into trade. On the other half of the value the producer would receive "equity certificates" which he could sell or use for bank loans. On these points Mr. Foster says:

Upsetting Price Equilibrium

"Steady price levels depend mainly on the balance between the volume of goods on the market and the volume of money offered for goods. The Edison plan is designed expressly to upset the balance. A farmer delivers, say, two thousand bushels of wheat to the Government warehouse and the Government delivers one thousand dollars in new money to the farmer. When the farmer sells the wheat he repays the loan and the Government destroys the money. Thus the volume of money is increased precisely when goods are stored; and the volume of money is decreased precisely when these goods are marketed. In other words, each transaction begins by placing in circulation goods without money to match the supply. Dollar demand is created as the supply of goods is withdrawn; the supply of goods is created as dollar demand is withdrawn.

"Would it enable the farmer to borrow more money on his products than he can now borrow? When Mr. Edison contends that farmers would obtain larger loans on their crops than they can now obtain from banks, he is confronted by this dilemma: Either the banks are now refusing to make sound loans, or under the Edison plan, the Government would make unsound loans.

"Neither Mr. Edison nor Mr. Ford can consistently contend that banks now refuse to make sound loans, for that is the way banks make most of their profits, and Mr. Edison and Mr. Ford have no doubt that banks are conducted for profit. It follows that the plan would yield larger loans to farmers only if the Government met the risks of unsound banking. In that case all that insolvent borrowers gained would be paid by the rest of the population, which, to say the least, is not a fair deal.

Cutting Down Farm Credit

"Apparently, however, the Government is not expected to run many risks, for the farmer is allowed to borrow an amount no greater than one-half the average value of his product for the previous twenty-five years. But prices have risen so high since 1896 that the farmer could borrow on most products much less than half the present value of the products. It would be much less, therefore, than the farmer could borrow directly from the banks on graded products; on products not graded no Government loans would be made, for there would be no way of determining the twenty-five-year price average.

"However, the farmer, having obtained the stipulated Government loan on his goods, could then offer his equity certificate to a bank for an additional loan. But the equity certificate is virtually a second mortgage, and no bank would prefer a second mortgage to a first mortgage.

"Suppose the Old National Bank was willing to lend a farmer eight hundred dollars on one thousand bushels of wheat. Suppose, however, the farmer deposited the wheat in a Federal warehouse and obtained five hundred dollars from the Government. Certainly the bank would not lend the farmer three hundred dollars on the equity certificate. The protection of the bank would be greater if the farmer relied on the bank for the entire loan; for in that case the bank could realize on its security without being obliged to pay five hundred dollars to get the wheat out of Government storage. The farmer can now borrow more money from a bank on standardized farm products than under the Edison plan."

GETTING TOGETHER

"The earth and the fullness thereof" is the primary source of capital. The farmer, therefore, is the nation's greatest producer of wealth. Farming and banking—production and distribution—should go hand in hand. The problems of the farmer are the problems of the banker. Both are vitally concerned in bringing about a proper adjustment of transportation and marketing costs. The increasing tendency toward a more sympathetic understanding of each other's relation to these problems is one of the very encouraging signs of the times, and will result in further advancement of their mutual interests. PICK 700 NAMES FOR JURY WHEEL

John McNutt, of Salem, and Newton Mahaffie of Calcutta, who were appointed as jury commissioners to select names for the jury wheel, expect to complete the work of tabulating the names of over 700 persons this week.

The job is a big one and requires much time and care to secure the names of persons who will be suitable for jury duty. Despite the utmost care occasionally the name of a person who is dead or has recently removed to another state will slip into the number turned over to Clerk Burns, much to the embarrassment of the county officials who issue summonses for the appearance of these persons in court when their names are drawn from the jury wheel.

THE BOTTLE REGENERATIVE RECEIVER

The Complete V. T. Regenerative Bottle Set. It Can Be Constructed by Amateurs.

To make this set, procure a wooden base, two inches thick by six inches wide, and of sufficient length to mount the instruments.

The variable condenser is composed of two bottles, one slightly smaller in diameter than the other. Cut the bottom off the larger of the two, and coat the inside with tin-foil. Coat the outside of the smaller bottle with tin-foil, and at equal distances around the bottle paste four strips of waxed paper to keep the two sheets of tin-foil from touching each other. The smaller bottle is mounted by drilling a hole through the base, and sealing the neck of the bottle in it with insulating compound. The larger bottle is slipped over this, and is raised and lowered by means of a cord fastened to its neck, the upper end of which passes over a roller in the top of the cabinet. At the end of the roller is fastened a knob and dial, and by turning this the capacity of the condenser is varied.

The stator of the vario-coupler is composed of a bottle from which the bottom has been cut off. It is fastened in the base the same as the smaller bottle of the variable condenser. The rotor is a section cut off a smaller bottle, which will just rotate within the stator. Holes are drilled in the sides of the stator and rotor in such a position that a rod can be passed through them, which is used to turn the rotor.

The rheostat is composed of a section about one inch long, cut from the same bottle as the rotor of the vario-coupler. This is wound with resistance wire as is shown in the diagram. Cut a circular piece of wood which just fits inside the rheostat. In the center of this bore a hole, and pass a rod through it which carries an arm making contact with the resistance wire. This rod also passes through the panel and carries on the end a knob and pointer.

The instruments are mounted in a cabinet, the front of which is made of a piece of window glass, drilled for the various switches, etc. A switch is used to vary the amount of inductance in the primary of the vario-coupler.

In the upper right hand corner of the cabinet is fastened a small box that contains the "B" battery, which is controlled by a switch mounted on the panel.

Besides the instruments above described, a vacuum tube, a socket, and two fixed condensers are used in the circuit.

The hook-up is also given herewith. (© Science and Invention and Radio News.)

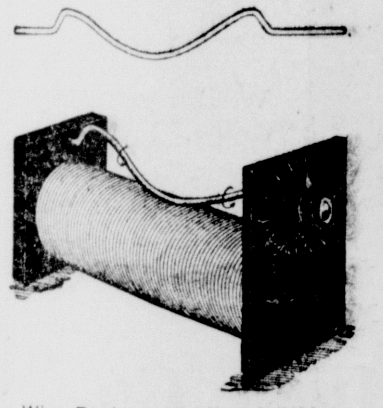

Tuning-Coil Slider Gives Fine Results

A tuning-coil slider which will appeal to many and one that will come within the ability and means of the amateur was recently worked out. It gives fine results and is made on novel lines.

A wire helix takes the place of the ordinary coil slider, over which it has several outstanding merits.

First—It is cheap and simple as compared with the assemblage of rods, standards, springs, contacts, etc., involved in ordinary slide construction.

Second—It produces its shifting of the contact point by a rubbing contact parallel with the turns of the wire, instead of across them, so that it avoids the common tendency to drop in between two adjacent turns; it is possessed of a smooth movement instead of a clattering movement, and does not wear off copper particles which short the adjacent turns.

Third—The fact that it works by rotation permits operation by a neat rotating rod on one end, of any desired type.

The contact is a straight-line traverse, parallel to the axis of the cylinder, along which line the insulation of the wire must be removed in the usual manner.

Mount through holes in the coil end plates so that the helix is somewhat sprung against the coil, making good contact. The straight ends should be of appreciable length, in relation to the helical portion, to facilitate this springing. The helix should be about 300 degrees—five-sixths of one turn. One-eighth inch diameter brass wire is about right for four-inch length of the wound portion of a coil. For longer coils, heavier wire is better. (© Science and Invention and Radio News.)

Telegraph Key for Radio Transmission

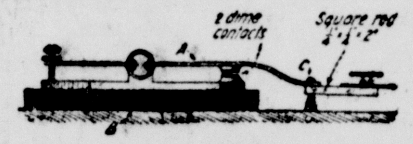

The accompanying illustration shows a good method of converting an ordinary telegraph or light wireless key into a regular heavy duty, easily operated, wireless key. This has been used on 500 watts continually for some time with satisfaction. This key is not tiresome to operate, as it was before it was changed.

To make the key, first remove the lever and tie off both contacts, to prevent more surface for the dimes to rest upon. File both sides of the dimes and then solder them in their new places. It requires a little perseverance to make them solder and rest evenly. However, it is worth the trouble. When the contacts have been soldered on properly,

THE RADIO SOUND-MARK

BROADCASTING stations are rapidly identified with the slogans or other distinguishing sounds with which they open their programs. The Atlanta Journal uses the "long, long, long" of a big gong; the Louisville station plays a few bars of "My Old Kentucky Home"; the Atlanta and West Point railroad station, in Georgia, blows four blasts on a locomotive whistle; the Davenport (Ia.) station begins with "Out Where the West Begins"; another station identifies itself with, "Out Where the Corn Grows Tall"; some of the broadcasters sound a signal on a telegraph key. the extension arm is put in position. This consists of a piece of square metal, about 1/4 inch by 1/4 inch by 2 inches; which dimensions work best. One can vary the length to suit individual taste. A piece of the aluminum sounder arm can be used for this part of the lever. Two holes are drilled in the piece, one to fasten it on the lever, the other for the knob. One small bolt at C is enough as there is not much strain at this point. At C, also, is fastened an ordinary telegraphic key spring, wound with larger diameter loops. This makes the spring weaker and the action of the key more resilient. No way of adjusting the spring has been provided as one can stretch it until he gets the right tension and then leave it alone. der the knob is a hard rubber or fiber disk, about two inches in diameter, on which to rest the fingers. This key will handle heavy currents and by moving the spring from A to C and the addition of the arm, it becomes easy to operate without making as many mistakes as before. The whole key should be mounted on a neat, wooden base to prevent the arm from hitting the table. (© Science and Invention and Radio News.)

Women Tell Each Other How They Have Been Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Perryburg, Ohio.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I suffered with pains in my sides all the time. I can't remember just how long I suffered, but it was for some time. One day I was talking with a lady I met on a car, and I told her how I was feeling and she said she had been just like I was with pains and nervous troubles, and she took the Vegetable Compound, and it cured her. So then I went and got some, and I certainly recommend it for it is good. Whenever I see any woman who is sick I try to get her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. ADA FRICK, Route 3, Perryburg, Ohio.

In nearly every neighborhood in every town and city in this country there are women who have been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the treatment of ailments peculiar to their sex, and they take pleasure in passing the good word along to other women. Therefore, if you are troubled in this way, why not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

FOR ECONOMICAL TRANSPORTATION

THERE ARE THREE IMPORTANT THINGS TO CONSIDER WHEN BUYING AN AUTOMOBILE

- First—The Original Cost.
- Second—The Cost of Maintenance.
- Third—Its Resale Value.

Chevrolet ranks first in all three requirements.

It is the lowest priced fully equipped quality light car. Chevrolet is the most economical to operate. It offers the greatest return in service for its cost of maintenance.

Chevrolet is the highest in resale value. Investigate the prices they bring. It is the one standard car for which there is a steady demand.

Investigate its merits—they will convince you.

UNCLE SAM NEEDS MORE BUILDINGS

GOVERNMENT CANNOT FURNISH PROPER WORKING QUARTERS FOR ITS EMPLOYEES.

MUST BUILD MORE OR RENT

Congress Will Be Asked to Provide Funds Next Year, Though the Administration Is Reluctant to Make the Request.

Washington.—The government has so many employees in the city of Washington that it cannot furnish proper working quarters for them. Money must be spent next year for new buildings or else privately owned buildings must be leased and the government must pay rent money.

The President and the members of his official family for four hours discussed recently this question of lack of working quarters, to the exclusion of all other matters of public moment. Under present conditions efficient government work is said to be impossible.

It is not hard to understand the reluctance with which an administration, whatever its political complexion, presents for consideration a problem the solution of which means the expenditure of a considerable amount of the taxpayers' money. Economy has been urged so strongly by the country and by congress that the asking for considerable sums for government buildings in Washington, a city which seemingly already is full of them, is not altogether pleasant to administrations which desire to make a record for keeping down costs.

There is one present case which points up the existing conditions of things. There is a building known as a treasury annex which was constructed during the war, and which today is showing symptoms of collapse because its underpinnings are giving way. It is absolutely necessary for safety reasons that this building be put into condition. The conditioning will cost $25,000, and there is only $15,000 available for the purpose. The government, however, looking to the safety of its employees, is going to take a chance and is to spend the $10,000 additional necessary to make the repairs and is to trust to congress to supply the money without growling about it.

Some Clerks Work in Hallways. In sound of the department buildings clerks are working in the halls attempting to do their daily tasks unaffected by the passing of visitors and corridor-frequenterers generally. The word is that efficiency is lost, and that it is a poor economy which forbids the spending of a million dollars or so for new buildings in order more than to offset the loss in time and in efficiency which are the net results from crowded and noisy conditions.

Some of the temporary buildings which the government erected in war time have been removed already. They were unsightly affairs, many of them fire-traps and many of them unsafe from the stability viewpoint. The razing of these buildings necessitated the removal of many of the clerks to other permanent government buildings already taxed to their limit.

At one time the State, War and Navy building housed all the activities of the three departments named and housed them comfortably. Today only a small part of each of the working forces of the three departments is housed in the building originally given over to the services of state and of the armed forces.

Army and Navy Buildings Crowded. Near the Lincoln Memorial there are two buildings, each of which covers many acres of ground. One of them houses the navy officials and clerks and the other those of the army. These huge buildings are overcrowded and still other buildings are in use to take care of officials and clerks. One of these big structures is called the Navy building and the other the Munitions building. They were built rapidly just after the United States entered the World war. They will not be torn down for some time to come, for they are of a semi-permanent construction.

These buildings probably will last for twenty years, but one day they must come down because they will be unsafe, and then the country will be confronted by the necessity of erecting two structures, each of which must be much larger than the great State, War and Navy building, which it was thought when it was erected would be adequate for the uses of the three departments for all time.

It is expected that congress will be asked early next winter to appropriate the money necessary to remedy the present conditions of affairs in the overcrowded public buildings of the capital. It is also expected that congress will be asked to provide money for new public buildings in several of the large cities of the country. Business men in these cities for some time have been urging the necessity for new post offices in their town, for in some cases cities have doubled in population and still are being served by postal employees who actually are being crowded onto the sidewalk in order to find a place to do their work.

ONLY 21 AMERICANS ARE MILLIONAIRES

Income Tax Reports Reveal Decrease Of 12 From Previous Year.

Washington, June 7.—The ranks of America's millionaire taxpayers continue to grow thinner, according to statistics of income for 1921, made public today by the Internal Revenue Bureau which shows that of the 6,662,176 firms and individual returns for 1921 only 21 had incomes exceeding $1,000,000.

This represents a decrease of 12 from the number receiving million dollar incomes in 1920 and compares with 65 in 1919, 67 in 1918, 141 in 1917 and 206 in 1916, the highest since the income tax laws became operative.

There was a falling off also in the total number of returns filed for 1921 from 7,259,944 filed for 1920, but the 1921 total was greater by nearly 1,330,000 than that for 1918. Indications already have been given that final computation of returns for 1922 will show another drop in the total as compared with the high mark of 1920.

Taxes aggregating $718,387,106 were collected on the more than 6,500,000 returns, an average of $107.98 for each return. The income from which the taxes were drawn aggregated $19,577,212,528, the average to the income for each return amounting to $2,938.56.

On the basis of the 1920 census however, the income tax payments for 1921 would allow each person in the United States a net income of only $187.65 and would result in the payment of only $6.79 a person. Only 6.28 per cent of the population paid income taxes whereas for the previous year 6.85 per cent of the population received incomes sufficient to require the filing of returns.

New York bore the largest total income tax burden of any state, its 1,066,687 taxpayers remitting $219,768,379—29.3 per cent of the government income tax revenue.

THEATRES

"June Madness" The new Metro production starring Viola Dana, at the High school auditorium Friday and Saturday nights, brings together an interesting trio—Miss Dana, Director Harry Beaumont, and Bryant Washburn, leading man. Mr. Beaumont has directed each of the others in individual series of productions, but this is the first time both are under his direction in the same picture.

Bryant Washburn fairly leaped to motion picture fame when he enacted the chief role in the "Skinner's Dress Suit" series of pictures directed by Harry Beaumont. Mr. Beaumont likewise produced all of Miss Dana's recent Metro successes: "The Five Dollar Baby," "The Fourteenth Lover," "Glass Houses," "They Like 'Em Rough," "Seeing's Believing" and "Page Tim O'Brien."

Mr. Washburn plays the part of a 1923-model jazz orchestra leader at a roadside to which Miss Dana comes after an escapade in which a bridegroom is left at the altar. Three racing automobiles, three motorcycle of fliers, and the crack Golden Gate Limited train of the Southern Pacific—in front of which Miss Dana's car dashed—furnished more thrills during the making of the picture than any member of the company had ever experienced before in a single day.

Tremendous Energy Bottled

Walter S. Josephson, N.Y.

Walter S. Josephson, a modest and hard-working mechanical genius, of New York, is the first man, so far as is known, to store a highly expensive liquid for every-day use. He is shown here in his laboratory releasing from a steel bottle a vapor which is powerful enough, when turned into a cylinder jack, to lift a street car in a few seconds. Josephson's development has been acclaimed by his scientific associates as one of the foremost discoveries of the day, a nod in its own field will rival radio in its sphere, they say. He has been offered a fortune for his device.

Science Produces Artificial Thunderbolt, Lightning

Pittsfield, Mass., June 7.—Science today believed it holds the key to the mystery of the ages—lightning and its offspring—harnessed electricity. Engineers of the General Electric company's experimental laboratory actual lightning ever created by men here produced the nearest thing to deity.

By the simple turn of a switch, an artificial thunderbolt, with its resulting flashes of jagged lightning, rumbling and played over a miniature village, dancing from lightning rod to rooftop on the tiny houses, then at will splitting asunder the wooden block houses of the imaginary dwellers.

It Was Mail Man's Unlucky Day

Lisbon, June 7.—Edward Elster, day, a mail carrier on Route No. 1 out of Lisbon, figured in two motor accidents Tuesday. With his daughter, Miss Alta Elster, at the wheel of his car, the latter broke down. As it was being towed into Lisbon, it got away on a steep hill, ran over the side of the road and turned over twice as it plunged over an embankment. The girl was unconscious when picked up and sustained severe cuts and bruises. She will recover. Elster was bruised but not seriously injured. Shortly afterward, Elster set out in a buggy to deliver mail over his route. An automobile crashed into his vehicle, completely wrecking it. No one was injured.

With the aid of B. S. McCormick mail carrier on Route No. 3, the mail for Route No. 1 was delivered late yesterday.

PADLOCK MEASURE EFFECTIVE TODAY

Columbus, June 7.—Ohio court judges beginning today will be able to emulate their colleagues on the federal bench by locking up premises on which the sale of liquor has become a nuisance. The Gordon "padlock" bill which enacts this portion of the federal statute into the state laws and which was passed by the 85th General Assembly becomes law today.

The new law permits the state courts to lock up for a period not exceeding one year any building, premises, boat, or other structure if there has been repeated violation of the prohibition laws and which because of this is declared by the court to be a nuisance.

$9,100 IN SAVINGS CERTIFICATES SOLD

Postmaster G. H. Mounts stated today that during the month of May the sales of Treasury Savings certificates at the Salem postoffice amounted to $9,100.

"There are many reasons why people like to buy Treasury Savings certificates but the principal one is that they are absolutely safe," stated Postmaster Mounts. "They run for five years from date of issue, can be redeemed at any time and as they are registered at the Treasury department at Washington, the owner is protected at all times against loss or theft."
